Types of Services Provided Through the Routine Maintenance Project:

- 1) Pavement Rejuvenation: Asphalt pavement is rehabilitated by applying chemical products designed to restore original properties to aged (oxidized) asphalt binders. Rejuvenators retard the loss of surface fines and reduce the formation of additional cracks. They also reduce pavement skid resistance for up to 1 year. Rejuvenators are generally appropriate for low-volume, low-speed roads.
- 2) Micro-Surfacing: Micro-surfacing is an advanced form of slurry seal that uses basic ingredients consisting of emulsified asphalt, water, fine aggregate and mineral filler and combines them with advanced polymer additives which are applied in a thin layer over the existing asphalt pavement.
- 3) Thin Overlay: Pavement rehabilitation by adding a nominal layer of asphalt (1.25 inches thick) over an existing paved surface and compacting by rollers or vibratory equipment. Typically used for pavements which exhibit a higher degree of distress.
